Eleanor Moresco, MD

Eleanor Moresco, MD is board-certified in internal medicine. She recently completed two terms as president of the Medical Staff of Hallmark Health System (HHS).

What motivated you to become a doctor?

When I was in college, I planned a career in the hard core sciences. I majored in physics, but as I got close to graduation, I realized I would be happier in a field that had more contact with people. Choosing medicine seemed to be the way to blend both these inclinations.

Why did you choose to specialize in internal medicine?

Originally I specialized in nephrology, a medical specialty that involves a lot of physiology as well as mathematics. The kidneys affect virtually every organ in the body. The focus of my practice has been working to teach patients to create their own healing and good health.

Having served as president of the HHS Medical Staff, how would you describe your colleagues and the quality of medical care our physicians provide?

It has been a true pleasure to practice in this health system. I have the highest regard for the excellent quality of care our medical staff offers and we clearly have some exceptionally talented providers here. One of the keys to having a successful medical practice is to have excellent colleagues to refer patients to. This has made it easy for me to be a longstanding member of this medical community. To emphasize this point, my entire family gets their medical care with doctors and practitioners who are part of HHS.

What do you do for fun when you are not caring for your patients?

I enjoy reading and dabbling in photography when I have some free time. Our family also has a little summer cottage in Maine that we enjoy escaping to whenever we have a chance.
