

Hallmark Health's Bone and Joint Program

You can suffer with bone or joint pain, or you can trust our experts to relieve it

"I did my research and checked out the orthopedic programs in Boston. I thought, why should I go all the way into Boston when everything I need is right here locally at Hallmark Health's Bone and Joint Program"

– Mary Alibrandi, Malden,
Hallmark Health's Bone and Joint Program knee surgery patient

Hallmark Health's Bone and Joint Program

If you suffer from bone or joint pain, it is reassuring to know that the best care and latest technology is available close to home. The new bone and joint program at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital and Lawrence Memorial Hospital of Medford, part of Hallmark Health System, is committed to relieving your pain and restoring the joy of movement to your everyday life.

Our program is modeled on the best hospital bone and joint programs in the country and is equal to – if not better than some of the programs found at the most prestigious teaching hospitals. We customize our care around the individual needs and values of each patient. Expert orthopedic surgeons, caring and specially trained nurses and physical therapists, all committed to providing an exceptional patient and family experience from surgery to rehabilitation. Unlike other hospitals in the region, our patients and their families have access to a bone and joint care coordinator 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

We pride ourselves on offering quality patient care. We monitor our program against national benchmarks for patient safety and quality have come out above the national average. We offer advanced anesthesia techniques that help patients get back on their feet faster. We stay abreast of current techniques and procedures so we can always deliver the best option for each individual patient.

“The pain in my knee has lessened quite a bit since I had my surgery, and my mobility is a lot better. I’m thrilled with the results. I found the Bone & Joint Program just in time.”
